

Faith Scenarios

Sleep Walk

After a very trying and tiring day, Paul got to bed late on Saturday night and then had trouble getting to sleep.

He tossed and turned and finally drifted off to sleep about 7 a.m. Sunday morning, when his alarm turned on because he had church service scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

What should Paul do?

a) Turn off his alarm and go back to get some much deserved sleep.	d) Turn off his alarm, get up and go to church (9 a.m. service), sleepy or not, because the Anointing destroys the yoke of bondage and will refresh him.
b) Reset his alarm for 9 a.m., so he can attend the 11 a.m. service and still get some sleep.	e) Pray and ask God what he should do.
c) Go to the 9 a.m. service because he refuses to allow the devil to prevent him from doing what has always been his custom.	f) Turn off the alarm, get up and go to church (9 a.m. service) to show the devil that a lack of sleep won't keep him from his appointment with God.

Faith Scenarios Between a Rock and a Hard Place

Maurice, as an international evangelist, was used to a full schedule of travelling the world to share the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The doctor's evil report of cancer in his body did not fit in with his schedule at all.

So Maurice entered into an individual counseling program of healing under another man of God whom he trusted. The counselor's directions were that Maurice should cancel some of his speaking engagements to stay home and focus on the Word of God and his healing.

However, Maurice's wife was especially concerned about how they would pay their bills with no income from speaking.

What should Maurice do?

a) Understanding his wife's concerns and in agreement with her wishes, ignore the counsellor's instructions and continue his preaching engagements.	d) Stay home, focus on Daily Scenarios for healing, and trust God for finances.
c) Cancel meetings but make phone calls to those same ministries to explain the situation to raise money to pay the bills.	e) Execute a Faith Action Plan by continuing his speaking engagements because he thought that cancelling his engagements would be a contradiction to his belief that he had been healed by the stripes of Jesus.
d) Stay home and trust God for the finances but call ministries all over the world to pray for his healing.
